Q1. How many internships should you apply to in order to increase your chances of securing an internship?

- ☒ 1 internship at a time. You should wait for the result and then apply to the next available opportunity ✗
- ☐ 3 internships because Internshala does not allow you to apply to more than 3 internships at a time
- ☐ As many internships as possible which match your profile, location & interest. More you apply, better it is. ✓
- ☐ None of the above

Explanation:

To increase your chances of selection, you should always apply to multiple internships that match your preferences and availability. The more internships you apply to, the higher your chances of selection.

Q2. Unnatti wants to do a Web Development internship in Delhi during her summer vacations. She has just finished applying to 1 Web Development internship. What should she do now?

- ☒ She should wait for the result of this internship before applying to more internships. ✗
- ☐ She should apply to more Web Development internships in Delhi to increase her chances of securing an internship. ✓
- ☐ She should apply to as many internships as she can even if they are not in Web Development or in Delhi.
- ☐ She does not need to apply to any more internships. The interested companies will get in touch with her anyway after she makes the first application.

Explanation:

To increase your chances of selection, you should always apply to multiple internships of profiles and location matching your preference and interest. To increase your chances of selection, you should always apply to multiple internships that match your preferences and availability. The more internships you apply to, the higher your chances of selection.

Q8. Prashant is applying to a 'Social Media Marketing' internship. Below is his answer to the question "Why should you be hired for this internship?". The employer had rejected his application. What do you think could be the reasons of rejection?

Answer by Prashant

Coming from an Engineering background, i ws trained for problem solving skills which are rlly important. Also i would point out prioritising and good decision making skills as my strengths. Hence i feel that i should be hired. Further, I'm looking forward to do an MBA (i hv scored 80.5 percentile in CAT 2017). So, dis internship would be of a great help for me giving the necessary exposure to work culture.

- ☐ He applied to an internship outside his academic field. He should apply to internships only in Engineering.
- ☒ He has not mentioned any relevant skills or experience he has for social media marketing internship or why he is interested in it. ✓
- ☒ There are grammatical (i instead of I) and spelling mistakes (necessary) in his answer. ✓
- ☒ He has used chat language (ws, rlly, hv etc.) at several places. ✓
- ☒ His CAT score is very low. ✗

Explanation:

1. While applying to an internship, always customize your answer for that specific profile and company. Include points such as skills and past experience you may have that are relevant to that internship and why are you interested in that particular internship.

2. Always read your answer twice to ensure there are no spelling or grammatical mistakes in your answer. Make sure that you do not use chat language and write in a professional manner. You can take help from a friend/senior or use online tools (Grammarly etc.) to help you identify errors.

Writing a good answer to this question will significantly improve your chances of getting shortlisted for the internship.
